

\\ an ongoing artistic journal in digitally published zines \\

auto

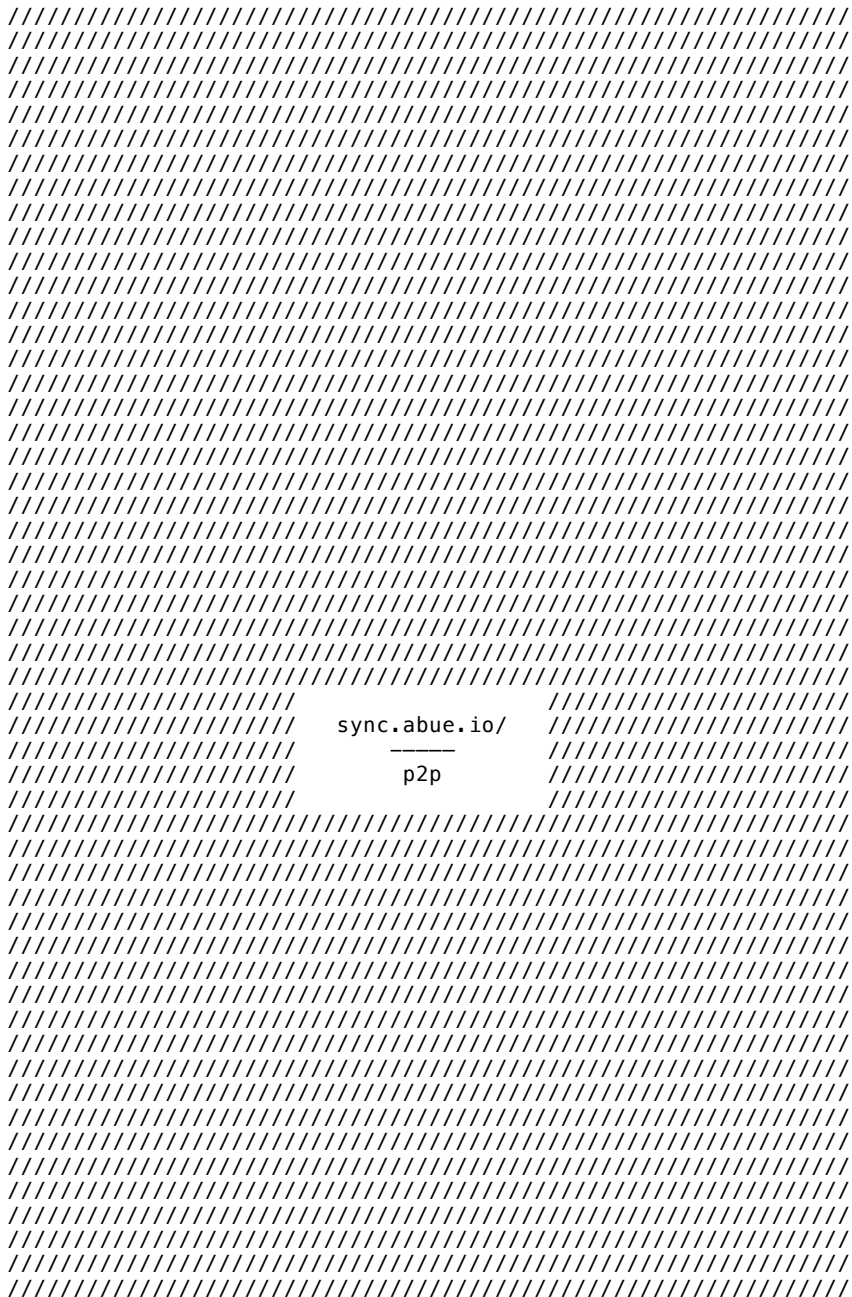

A visual reflection on word processing, page margins, and the ghosts of the machine:

"The literature machine can perform all the permutations possible on a given material, but the poetic result will be the particular effect of one of these permutations on a man endowed with a consciousness and an unconscious, that is, an empirical and historical man. It will be the shock that occurs only if the writing machine is surrounded by the hidden ghosts of the individual and of his society."

Blank lined area for writing.